PROFILE

Software Developer with a background in psychology, driven by curiosity and analytical thinking. I work in a structured and detail-oriented way, combining software development skills with a strong ability to identify patterns and develop scalable solutions.

My background in psychology gives me a strong understanding of human behavior, helping me build solutions that prioritize user needs.

I bring a collaborative spirit, a problem-solving mindset, and the ability to bridge the gap between people and technology to build solutions that are intuitive, human-centered, and impactful.
